☞ Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS
By Joseph M Sanderson,
For Publishing by Subscription,
A Biography of the Signers
OF THE
Declaration of Independence,
Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers of half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

AUTUMN.

She moves with melancholy gait;
Grief dwells upon her brow,
No laughing graces on her wait,
Nor love with ardent vow.

The grape which leaves as gold entwin'd,
Waves o'er her forehead fair;
Her mantle courted by the wind,
Displays her bosom bare.

I greet thee! maid with tearful eye!
Come—lead away my soul.
From pride and thoughtless levity,
From fashion's vain controul.

Thou show'st how soon the sweets are fled
Of summer's brightest bloom;
Her glories lie beneath thy tread,
Thy mansion is her tomb.

But while her transient date I mourn,
I see thee far away—
By northern blasts thy robes are torn,
Thyself stern winter's prey.

Thou child of dust—thus short thy space,
Pale sickness will intrude,
Tho' unperceiv'd—time steals apace,
And death demands his food.

Then strew with wisdom's seed the soil,
And practice heavenly lore,
So harvest shall repay thy toil,
When life's young spring is o'er.

THE SAGACIOUS INDIAN.

An Indian of Peru, who had lost an horse, discovered, after diligent search, that a Spaniard had stolen it. He complained to a magistrate of the place, and the parties were ordered to appear; when the Spaniard offering to swear that the horse was his own, the poor Indian was on the point of loosing his cause; but suddenly throwing a cloak over the horse's head, he said to the Spaniard—"If it be really your horse, you can surely tell of which eye he is blind." The Spaniard after some hesitation, and depending at least on the chance of the guess, said the left. "May it please your worship," said the Indian, and taking the cloak off, "he is blind of neither." The judge perceiving the roguery of the Spaniard, and admiring the natural acuteness of the Indian, ordered the horse to be restored to him with costs of suit, and committed the thief to prison.

BASENESS.

To speak ill of a man in his absence, shews a base mind; and to his face, is adding affront to the scandal.

Marshal Villars, upon the death of the duke of Vendome, in Louis XIVth's time, was made governor of Provence in his room: and when the Marshal went to take possession of his new government, the deputies of the Province made him the usual present of a purse full of Louis d'ors; but the person who had the honor to present it, said to him—"Here, my Lord, is such another purse as that we gave to the Duke of Vendome, when, like you, he came to be our governor; but the Prince after accepting it as a testimony of our regard for him, very generously returned it." "Ah!" said Marshal Villars, squeezing the purse into his pocket, "Monsieur Vendome was a most surprising man; he has not left his fellow behind him."

SCRUPLE OF CONSCIENCE.

An old German knight, in the first half of the 17th century, when enormous goblets were among the chief ornaments of the rooms and tables of the nobles, sat once at table next to his young wife in a numerous company, where the bottle went continually round, and a large goblet was to be emptied each time, on pain of being contemned as a false brother by the guests, who were used to be very strict in this point. The wife, who had received a more polished education, whispered to her husband, when it again came to his turn to empty an enormous glass, to pour the wine secretly under the table. "The others will see it," said he. His wife therefore, just as he was raising the glass to his mouth, snuffed out the candle, and repeated her request. Instead of complying, he said with a kind of solemnity, "God sees it," and emptied the goblet.

ABSENCE OF MIND.

The justly celebrated Lessing was frequently very absent. Having missed money at different times, without being able to discover who took it, he determined to put his servant's honesty to trial, & left some on his table. Of course you counted it, said one of his friends. Counted it, said Lessing, rather embarrassed—no, I forgot that.

ALEXANDRIA
MONDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 25.

It is very natural that every person should calculate and conjecture respecting the issue of our negociations with Spain; and the more, because there are few facts published to clear away the mystery that hangs around the subject. There are sundry movements which, as their object is not understood, are apt to mislead persons to suppose that Florida will shortly become the theatre of something in the shape of war. The government advertised for transports to convey troops from Boston to New Orleans; and it was surmised that this had some connection with our Spanish affairs. But we are told by the Boston Patriot, that these troops are recruits on the peace establishment for the southern division; and that they would have been recruited and sent on in the same manner, if the Spanish treaty had been ratified. It has become a topic of conjecture, what can be the object of Commodore Hardy's visit to the coast of South America with a squadron of ships? We cannot answer this directly; but by recalling to the recollection of our readers some circumstances, we may furnish a clue to the true solution.—It will be remembered, that in our accounts from South America, Lord Cochrane was said to have threatened, about the time he blockaded Callao, to capture the vessels carrying Spanish property, of whatever nation. Later accounts affirm that he has put this threat into execution—that he had made several captures of neutral vessels, among which was the Montezuma, an American schooner, owned at Baltimore: and that he had taken money out of a number of others. If these be true, (and they have not been contradicted,) it is very probable that English vessels have been among the rifled; and another probability follows, that the two ships with which Commodore Hardy is to sail, are to protect the English vessels, trading to South America, from Lord Cochrane's fleet.

With respect to the news of orders being received here, for 20,000 stand of arms, ordnance and other munitions of war, to be forwarded to Savannah immediately; we have heard it only through the Democratic Press, and the New-York National Advocate. We should like to know who received this order? We suspect that the Advocate got its news from the Press, and that of the Press originated in error. [Philadelphia Union.

CURIOUS CIRCUMSTANCE.

A person named Hinkworth, of genteel appearance, was on Tuesday last, brought to the bar of the Mayor's Court, to be tried for forgery. He stated that his impoverished situation prevented his employing counsel, and therefore he would undertake his own defence. He asked, very politely, for the indictment, that he might look over it previously to the trial, it was handed to him; and whilst he held it, he took off the forged check which was attached to it and swallowed it. When he handed the indictment back to the deputy attorney general, the check was missed, and the prisoner was asked what he had done with it? He replied, that he came there to be tried, and not to answer questions. This advice availed not the prisoner; for proof of the forged check was given, after the fact was substantiated of his having destroyed it; and he was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. He defended himself in an address of some ingenuity and ability to the jury. [Franklin Gazette.

Extract of a letter from Messrs. F. Martell, A. & G. Martell, of Cognac, to a gentleman of Boston, dated

Cognac, August 18, 1815.

Our crop of grapes will not be so abundant as was first expected—being, however, on the eve of a good vintage, we can form an idea of what the prices for new brandy will be.

It is generally supposed that they will run from f 150 to f 170 per 27 velts. (54 gallons) prime cost, according to the demand. That brandy cannot be ready for shipments, before the latter end of December.

Last year's brandy is now purchasing from f 190 to f 200; and these quotations will experience very little alteration for these two months to come.

Orders entrusted to our care, will meet with due attention.

Charente, our shipping port, will admit vessels of any burthen, and small traders to Bordeaux, Nantz, Havre, &c. belong to that place. Every shipment will be, as usual, duly established by a certificate, signed with our own hand.

We remain, your ob't servants,
F MARTELL, A. & G. MARTELL.

HAYTI.

Extract of a letter.—"I was at Cape Henry for a few days. It is scarcely to be believed to what a state of system, order, regularity and civilization, these people have arrived. Their police is quite perfect, and their streets by far the cleanest I ever saw in any part of the world. Their establishments do them infinite honor.—There is not an hospital in Europe on a more liberal establishment, or better regulated, than the one at Cape Henry.—English is taught in all their schools; it is, in fact, the foundation of their education. The Liturgy of the Church of England, the Bible, and the Prayer-book, are printed in English and French columns, and form the principal part of their study. The King says, if he forces them to understand English, they will become Englishmen; and if he obliges them to read the Liturgy of the Church of England, with the Bible and Prayer-book, they will naturally become Protestants."

SHIPWRECK.

The following melancholy account of the wreck of the brig Brutus, and the loss of 12 of her passengers, is copied from the Boston Palladium of Tuesday:

"Captain Atwood, late of the brig Brutus, of Castine, lost on Cape Cod, has arrived in town. The brig went ashore on Orleans beach, Sept. 20, at noon, in a heavy gale, having lost both topmasts a few hours before. She went entirely to pieces in half an hour after she struck, and nothing has been saved belonging to the vessel, except two anchors and the small boat. She had 23 passengers on board, who saved some of their effects.

"The following persons perished, being either killed on the wreck by the spars, &c. or washed off, or drowned in endeavoring to reach the shore. Mr. Little and three sons, about five, seven and ten years of age, (four of his children were saved); Mrs. Gilmore and two sons, about 12 to 14 years old, (all the above from Londonderry); 2 boys about 16, from do. names unknown, (their father saved); a gentleman about 45 to 50 years of age, of St. John, N. B. (his clothes marked W. P. and his name supposed to be Peters); Mrs Townsend, aged 75, from Digby, N. S formerly of New-York; (all the above passengers); Benjamin ——, a young man belonging to New-York, one of the crew. Total 12. When the vessel first went on shore a rope was first made fast to a spar, which being thrown overboard, drifted ashore, and was secured by the people on the beach—by this means, all of the crew and passengers who were saved, (except one young lady who drifted into the surf, on the foremast, and was brought on shore) got safe to land.

"The inhabitants of Orleans and Chatham, behaved kindly to the unfortunate passengers, raised a subscription for their relief, and procured them the means of reaching New-York, for which purpose a schr. capt. Gould, had been taken up at Chatham.

"Only the bodies of Mrs. Townsend and one of the children had been found, when capt. Atwood left Orleans—they had been decently interred, Mrs. T. had a son on board, who was saved. Captain Atwood has several hundred dollars worth of property in his possession, belonging to the St John's gentleman, and he supposes, considerable money, belonging to him, was lost."

PUT BACK IN DISTRESS.

Schnr. Union, Brown, which sailed from this port on the 12th of September, bound to Santa Cruz, from which time until the 25th, experienced blustering weather, with some gales, and so thick that for five days could get no observation—on the 24th Sept. long. 67 55, lat. 30 26, spoke a brig 8 days from St. Eustatia, name and destination not understood, as it was blowing fresh, but supposed she was bound to some northern port of the U. States, requested her to report the Union—on the 25th, the first part of the day commenced with heavy gales, which by 12 P. M. encreased to a violent hurricane—took in all sail and lay to under bare poles—at 2 A. M. the vessel lay on her beam ends, with one pump constantly going—at 4 A. M. she lay so low that the men at the lee pump were up to their necks in water, and the weather pump would not work—at 5 A. M. the vessel laying more over so that the water was running over the lee companion, and still getting higher—cut away the main-mast, and tried to scud her before the wind, to enable the hands at the pumps to free her of a quantity of water which she had shipped.—The wind suddenly shifting, rendering this effort abortive, and she was hove too with the wind on the starboard side. The sea at this time making a continual breach over her, they were unable to free her for 4 hours, during which both pumps were kept going.—The camboose, water casks, provisions, jib, top-sail-yard and sail, bencoops, binnacle nearly every thing on deck were swept; and the quarter railing and boards stove in, and the dead lights started, which admitting much water, greatly damaged the cargo, chiefly consisting of flour and bread. The captain was washed from the companion, remained a considerable time alongside, and was finally saved from a watery grave by being caught in a part of the mainsail hanging over the side. He is very much bruised, and has since been unable to leave his birth, suffering the most excruciating pain. On the 26th the gale moderated, when finding the vessel almost an unmanageable wreck, it was thought necessary and prudent to return to the United States to repair damages. On the 6th inst. found the little water they had saved, running so low, that they were compelled to put the crew on an allowance of a half pint for 24 hours—at 11 A. M. this day, lat. 30 15 N. saw the head of a mast 3 or 4 feet of which above water—11th instant, at 5 A. M. made the land to the southward of Currituck—12th, at 2 P. M. lat. 36 26, long. 1 48, spoke schooner Gen. Jackson, Proctor, 35 hours from Baltimore, had about two hours previous, lost his steerman overboard, a colored man belonging to Baltimore.—Captain P. treated them with great kindness, and supplied them with a cask of water and some potatoes. On the 17th, at 11 o'clock P. M. anchored in 6 fathoms water—18th, at 2 P. M. saw Old Point Light, and being unable to obtain a pilot, ran in without one. (Nor. pa.

AWFUL EFFECTS

Of a late Hurricane in the West-Indies, anticipated by the editors of the New-York Gazette, through the attention of Mr. Topliff, their vigilant Boston correspondent:

Boston, October 18—noon.

The brig James & Isabella, Bourne, from Martinique, has arrived at Kennebunk.—Capt. B. writes me as follows:

"Wells, October 17.

"I arrived at Kennebunk yesterday, from Moran Bay, Martinique, from which I sailed on the 23d Sept. On the 26th, I touched at St. Bartholomews, where I obtained a list of American vessels that went on shore during the hurricane on the 20th September, but unfortunately I left it on board; however, I can remember the names of all the northern vessels, viz. schooners Harmony, (late Moulton, who died 26th September) of Portland; Oscar, Barnes, of Castine; Teazer, Francis, Newburyport; brig Mason's Daughter, Moran, Providence; the remainder belonging to Baltimore, North-Carolina, Alexandria, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. At Moran, the gale was not severe; but as I passed St. Pierres, I saw four or five vessels on shore. At St. Barts it must have been dreadful beyond the conception of any person who never saw the place, and since the gale it is said to have been the most destructive of any in the memory of the oldest inhabitants: Every vessel in port, without a single exception, went on shore, most of which will be totally lost. A great many of the houses and stores are blown down, and a number of lives lost. So sudden and violent it came on, that a great many saved not any thing from their houses, and with difficulty escaped with their lives. The streets were filled with ruins of buildings, broken furniture, masts and spars of vessels driven ashore, hen coops, boats, &c.; and so very impetuous was the wind, that it actually blew over one of the Keys or Rocks, situated off the harbor, which has been standing, perhaps, ever since the creation of the world. St. Martins has suffered equally with St. Barts; six boiling (sugar) houses are all that were left standing, and it was said 147 lives were lost there, and a few at Anguilla, which suffered more in comparison than either St. Barts or St. Martins. St. Kitts received a great deal of damage. Antigua had not been heard from. Off Dominica was boarded by the Patriot privateer Harriet, and treated politely."

Extract of a letter from capt. Barnes, of the schooner Oscar, dated

St. Bart's, Sept. 27.

We obtained a new anchor and cable sufficient for a vessel of 150 tons, (the Oscar is only 65 tons,) but before 12 o'clock on the 21st, we went on shore, as many had done before, and the remainder soon followed.—We saved some of the cargo & had it stored, but such was the violence of the gale, that the store, together with the merchant's house, were washed away. I have lost the vessel's papers, &c. and in fact every thing except what I stood in. To describe the horrors of the 21st, is beyond my power—an eye-witness can only imagine, and to me it seems a dream. Ships of between 300 and 400 tons are now on dry land; hundreds of buildings blown to atoms, and the sea is now flowing where many of the stores stood before the gale. Fortunately there were only 21 lives lost; but many were injured, myself among the number, by the falling of a house. I lay under the ruins some minutes, when I fortunately got assistance—I am getting better.—By accounts from the neighboring islands, they have suffered as much as at this. Every estate, except two, in St. Martins, are in ruins, and returns are received of 146 souls being lost, and many missing."

The brig Renown, Hedge, which sailed several days since for New-Orleans, returned yesterday, having sprung aleak.

Entered, schooner Planet, Prince, from Alexandria.

Cleared, ship Catharine & Elizabeth, Portelly, St. Barts.; schr. Victor, Dennet, Alexandria; Hannah, Bargess, Mobile; Romeo, Easterbrooks, do.; Polly & Sophia, Adams, do.

Yours, &c. S. TOPLIFF.

LATEST FROM LIVERPOOL.

(By the Euphrates, lately arrived at N. York.)

Several letters are received by this arrival of the same purport as the following, which is addressed to a very respectable house in this city. Liverpool, Sept. 11.

"My principal reason for addressing you by this opportunity, is the report prevailing here this day, of some war on the part of this country being in contemplation, and most probably with the U. States, which I trust, for your sake, will prove quite false. Improbable as such an event may at first appear, it becomes less so when coolly considered, with all the concurrent circumstances of the times. This country cannot permit Spain to retain the treaty of cession of the Floridas to the U. States; this must involve Spain in a war with the Union; she cannot defend her still remaining transatlantic possessions against America; therefore England must do it for her. Moreover it is argued, and plausibly, as I think, by many among us, that not only England, but many continental powers are bent upon supporting Spain, if necessary, against America; besides which, they deem it politic to check in time, the rapidly growing Colonies of Northern America, shewing plainly an unlimited ambition after extension of territory; such as, if crowned with success, may prove dangerous to other European powers besides England. Another reason in support of the probability of the said event rumored, is the present situation of public and private credit in the U. States, which is said to be at its lowest ebb, and the conclusion is that the government could not therefore make any effort commensurate with the exigencies of the occasion, and that thus a division in the Union might be created.

"If our cabinet have these views, and the conviction is most natural, that the aggrandizing disposition of the U. States' government, cannot for any length of time avert a breach with them; unless G. Britain wishes to see, besides the Floridas, also Cuba, Mexico, and other Spanish colonies under the dominion of the U. States—and all the British possessions in the W. Indies worth having, in jeopardy, at the very opening of any future war with her jealous and threatening rival, then an early rupture with the U. States assumes, indeed, much probability.

"Two days ago 10 and 12 guineas were given at Loyd's, to receive 100*l.* if press-warrants were issued in ten or twelve days, or a fortnight—20 guineas to return a 100, if war between Spain and America was declared in six weeks or two months, &c.—I give you the report as it prevails here, with the reasoning suggested on the occasion, and which, certainly, makes the dreadful event much less improbable than it appears at first—You will, of course, draw your own conclusions from all I have stated, and consider my communication in its proper light; my wish is to be useful to you on all occasions. It is ascertained that all the packets at Falmouth preparing for service, have been suddenly ordered to sea; this argues at least that something of moment is on the tapis with government."

"Our market has in general been dull for some time past—Cotton, however, took a start, and good samples of Carolina sold at 180 and 190, duty paid, which are the present quotations, but without demand; long staple is scarce, the nominal price is 380 a 400 l. I would not recommend your calculating on higher prices for the new crop, but at the same time I do not apprehend any diminution. The first arrivals of new rice will probably bring 35*l*; but as our crops of grain are abundant, this price is not likely to hold—about 30 l. may be calculated on.

"Government being obliged to purchase all the tobacco raised in this country, they will have no occasion for inferior qualities of foreign. At the last sale, 9000 hhds were tendered, of which they only bought 1500, and 14 of those were first quality Virginia, at 9*o* a 12*o* per cwt. These prices are likely to hold—some small parcels of very fine Kentucky were bought at 7*o*. duty paid.—There arrived lately at Havre a cargo of 330 hhds Virginia, consisting of 100 hhds superior, 120 good quality, 72 good ordinary, and 88 ordinary, which were sold at 7*o* per cwt. This price is considered to be at least 25 per ct. under their present value; they were purchased on speculation, and will be tendered at the next sale. There will be a sale at the latter end of October, and another in December or January, and it is probable a small quantity of prime Carolina might meet an advantageous sale; but the sale of good Virginia is assured, as government must have it. Brandy is worth at present 28*o*, 1st proof, but it is likely to be lower after vintage, which is on the eve of commencing. Cargo Wines, 300 f.

A NOBLE ACT.

For the following anecdote of a Mr. PERRY, an old Revolutionary Soldier, we are indebted to a gentleman of high respectability, and who was an eye witness to the scene. It occurred at Schenectady but a few days since:—Some ten or fifteen years ago, Mr. Perry set out from one of the eastern states to visit his friends living in the western part of this state. By the time he had reached Schenectady, he found his purse exhausted. He was old, infirm, destitute, and among strangers; but to strangers he was compelled to relate his short and pathetic story, and appeal to their charity for assistance to prosecute his journey. The landlord of the stage tavern and a neighbor, who happened to be present, were not deaf to the claims of a poor soldier and between them gave him a five dollar bill, never expecting to hear from him again. A week ago, Mr. Perry put up at the same tavern, on his way to his friends, in a neat dress of homespun, the venerable Soldier presented himself to the landlord, and said, "Some years ago, in a time of

Extract from a London paper.

INDIA.

We have been favored with the perusal of an extract of a letter from an Officer serving with the force under Colonel Doveton. The writer has, with much feeling, described the execution of six Sepoys, belonging to the Bengal establishment, who had deserted, and who were recently taken in arms among the adherents of Appa Saheb. Three of these unfortunate men are said to have belonged to the 22d Battalion of Native Infantry, and were taken when attempting to enter Assier Ghur. They were tried by a Drumhead Court Martial on the 9th ult. and sentenced, each to be blown from a gun. The writer of the letter alluded to, says, that the fortitude and resignation exhibited by these men, when they were led to execution, almost exceeded belief; and that nothing could surpass the calm composure with which they encountered death. Three others were tried, and executed on a subsequent day; and it appears that they met their fate with similar fortitude and resignation. It is stated, that from the moment when these brave but deluded men were taken, they anticipated the punishment which awaited them; they refused to take any sustenance, and seemed to be ready for their trial and death.—During their trial they manifested a deep sense of contrition for the crime which had brought them into their awful predicament, and their demeanor seemed to affect every man in the ranks with becoming commiseration. They heard their sentence without any visible emotion or change of countenance, and marched with firmness to the spot on which they were to die. When they approached the engines of their destruction, they wheeled in a regular manner, each person proceeding to the gun which was to terminate his existence. It is stated that their conduct throughout, exhibited no symptom of profligacy or of obstinacy; and that although they were resolute and resigned, they did not appear to be ostentatiously braving their fate. One of them after he was lashed to the gun, requested that his eyes might not be bandaged, and when this request was not granted, he, for the first and last time, manifested some signs of uneasiness. They all suffered their punishments without attempting to justify their conduct; and it is said, that their fate, while it excited a proper sympathy, was acknowledged to be just by all the troops who witnessed the awful ceremony. One of the Sepoys of the 22d Batallion of N. I. had assisted Appah Sahib in his escape from the British camp; and declared, when his sentence was pronounced, "that from the time when he had deserted from the Company's Colours, he had not enjoyed a moment's peace of mind." The sufferers are all described as men of high cast—and well made good looking soldiers. The conduct of these brave, but deluded men, on this trying occasion, may serve to convince our countrymen at home, who frequently form the most erroneous opinions respecting the natives of India, that the Company's Native Military Service is composed of courageous materials; and it must be acknowledged, that however the crime of the sufferers demanded the forfeiture of their lives, there is no instance recorded, in which men have submitted to their fate with greater firmness or composure. It is truly lamentable that such soldiers should have been deluded. India Gazette, March 15.

FALLS OF ST. MARIE.

The Falls of St. Marie are on the straits of St. Marie, by which the waters of Lake Superior discharge themselves into Lake Huron.

The straits are about forty miles long.

The falls do not descend perpendicularly, as those of Niagara or St. Anthony, but consist of a rapid which continues near three quarters of a mile, over which canoes, well piloted, may pass; but they cannot ascend. The British fur traders make a portage of a mile in passing it.

It has been observed by travellers that the entrance into Lake Superior, from these straits, affords one of the most pleasing prospects in the world; and that the basin at the head of the straits is calm and secure against the tempestuous winds which blow on lake Superior. At the lower end of the falls nature has formed a most commodious station for taking with nets the white fish, which crowd there in the months of September and October in such amazing quantities as to furnish the means of a great commerce.

The falls are in latitude 46 28, about a degree further north than the city of Montreal.

The French had a fort at the upper end of these falls before the war of 1756.

The United States have determined to establish a fort there also in the course of the ensuing year.

Thus, the administration continues to develope the policy which enables the people of the West to say to themselves with encreasing confidence, "We are done with Indian wars."

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accomodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

ANDW. ROUNSAVELL,
september 8 Jailor.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.
Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.
June 11 tf

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse clothing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the

Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. Rev. WM HAWLEY, Washington, Rev. WM. H. WILMER, Alexandria, Rev. OLIVER NORRIS, Alexandria, Rev. REUEL KEITH, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.
